

Local Contractor Fast Becoming A "Go-To" For Struggling Big 3 Parts Suppliers

Pontiac, MI – Local Pontiac, MI Contractor, Lee Contracting, is quickly becoming the best local resource for companies in need of assistance due to restructures, consolidations or closings. With the economic downturn in full force, many companies are forced to make quick decisions in order to stay in business, this includes rapidly moving industrial equipment from one plant to another before other buyers or banks close in. That's where Lee Contracting comes in, with an experienced in house staff of riggers, pipe fitters, electricians and millwrights; they can quickly assess a company's needs and put a plan into action.

"It's unfortunate that so many businesses locally and nationwide are forced into these situations, but I am thankful that we have the resources to assist them during this very difficult time", states a company representative.

With over 20 years of experience, Lee Contracting has made quite a name for itself both locally and nationally. They have offices in several key locations throughout the country and successfully perform work in Canada and Mexico.

Lee does not outsource its work to other companies. This can be a huge benefit to struggling companies in that it cuts time and cost. A major plus when a company needs to close, store, or move equipment in a hurry and are limited in their budgets.

"We take into consideration each client's individual needs and tailor our approach accordingly. Our work isn't done until the customer is completely satisfied".

Michigan alone has a current unemployment rate of 12.6%, the lowest in the country. A majority of Michigan based businesses are deep rooted in automotive supply or have close ties to the auto industry.

Even with the newly released government funding "bailout", a number of these businesses are too far gone to be saved from this new surge of funding and will need companies like Lee to assist them during these difficult, transitional times.
